The High Country Peace and Justice Group is a group of Peace Activists in Hot Springs, Montana (population 600) dedicated to a peaceful and more equitable world for all through a better environment and justice for all. Since 2005 we have promoted candidates in elections, worked to get the State of Montana to uphold environmental standards, organized peace vigils, supported workers rights, lobbied against the Patriot Act, and raised money for Katrina victims and for the fight against coal burning plants.

Strike endorsed by the Jeannette Rankin Peace Center in Missoula, Montana.
